

Prior to finding Devcorp we had encountered many other builders and project home companies that just didn't come close to Joe and his team's professionalism.

Devcorp has been a pleasure to deal with from the day we approached Joe about building our dream home. His ongoing assistance, availability and honesty has been beyond amazing.

Everyone comments on the finer details that Joe and his team thought of when building our home. His broader team deals with their clients with utmost professionalism and kindness - they treat your home like it's their own.

Joe is not a builder that will stop answering his phone after hand over, if there's ever an issue he will be out there himself or send a team member over to investigate the problem. Joe was always responsive via email and phone - he would provide updates weekly and sometimes even daily!

Our family loves entertaining and our house is an entertainers dream! We look forward to coming back to our beautiful home all thanks to Devcorp.

If we were to build again we would not hesitate using Joe again.
